"Tell Him I Can't Go," She Said,
Dully.

Part II.

I give it up. I hear of wonderful bargains in fabrics and of miracles performed with needle and thread; but I am in doubt. I hold my pen poised in vain when I would add to Dulcie's life some of those joys that belong to women by virtue of all the unwritten, sacred, natural, inactive ordinances of the equity of heaven. Twice she had been to Coney Island and had ridden the hobby horses. 'Tis
